Rose to File Motion For New Trial for Alleged Gun Toter

Judge J. E. Rose announced this morning that he would file motion for a new trial for W. W. Gresham, convicted of carrying a pistol this morning in corporation court. Gresham was fined $100 and costs when found guilty of the charges. The motion for a new trial is to be filed probably Wednesday.

Gresham was arrested some time ago by a party of officers headed by Chief Covington. When the car in which Gresham was riding was searched a pistol was found wrapped in some old clothes in the back of the tonneau.

This morning the defense attempted to claim exemption from violating the law on the grounds that Gresham was a tapper in the mines and uses the gun in his business. He stated he was on the way to his shack when apprehended.

TEMPORARY WHITE HOUSE WILLARD HOTEL, WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—All matters of national policy and government will stand temporarily as they are. President Coolidge announced today in his first conference with newspapermen.

No changes will be made nor any public commitment of the new administration until after the funeral of President Harding has been completed.

WASHINGTON, August 4.—President Calvin Coolidge today officially took over control of the government of the United States.

In a temporary White House on the third floor of the New Willard hotel, the new president performed the functions of his new office.

The first official act of his administration was to set the funeral arrangements for his chief who died.

Summons Hughes and New.

Immediately upon his arrival, Mr. Coolidge summoned the members of his cabinet who are in town—Secretary of State Hughes and Postmaster General Harry S. New.

It was decided that the body of the late president will be met by the new executive and members of his official family—the same official family which functioned for Mr. Harding—and escorted to the White House when it arrives here Tuesday.

The state funeral will take place on Wednesday when the body of Mr. Harding will be taken down Pennsylvania avenue where he rode a little more than two years ago to his inaugural to the capitol, where it will lie in state in the great rotunda.

The display that goes with the funeral of the chief of a state will be seen when the cortege moves from the White House to the capitol. There will be a military band playing the funeral march and an escort of soldiers, pacing slowly. Members of the supreme court, congressmen, diplomats and representatives of every phase of Washington's official life will be in the procession, according to the plans which were announced shortly after Mr. Coolidge reached Washington.

Public to View Body.

At the capitol the catafalque will be placed beneath the great dome in the rotunda, where others of the nation's dead have lain in solemn state. Soldiers and sailors, arms grounded, heads bowed, will stand on guard around the casket. After the funeral services, the people will be admitted to pay their last respects to the dead president and to lay wreaths beside him. Then at 6 p. m. the body will be removed to the funeral train and started for Marion, Ohio, for interment.

Immediately upon his arrival in Washington last night, the new president received Secretary Hughes, Postmaster General New and other officials, and approved the funeral plans which had been drawn up.

Mr. Coolidge's arrival in the capital was solemn. Grave faces greeted him. An automobile stood at the Union Station and in it he was whisked to the New Willard Hotel, escorted by some of the same secret service men who watched over Presidents Wilson and Harding. ### DAY OF SORROW HERE AUGUST 10

City Organizations Plan a Tribute to Harding

A community memorial service in Port Arthur for the late President Warren G. Harding will be held in this city, probably next Friday, which day President Calvin Coolidge has declared as a national day of sorrow.

Initiative looking toward the arrangement of the memorial service in Port Arthur, in which civic, religious and various organizations will participate, was taken by Rev. Dr. William Oeschger, pastor of the First Christian church, but the working out of the details, appointment of the committees to handle the service and various other forces will be under the direction of Mayor J. P. Logan, it is said.

While definite instructions about closing the federal building here are expected from Washington, none had arrived in Port Arthur up until noon today. Federal department officials in Port Arthur said.

Flags on the federal building, on various business houses, office buildings, homes, and alcohol shops in Port Arthur were still down at half mast today. On the ships not only the flag of the nation, but the house flags were lowered to half mast.

Claims Harding Had a Premonition of Death Before He Took Office

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 4.—Before leaving for Washington President Harding predicted he would never live through his term of office, it was revealed here today.

George Van Fleet, associated with Mr. Harding on the Marion Star for 29 years, said the late president expressed his premonition to a few intimate friends.

"I don't remember Mr. Harding's exact words, but I do remember the prediction," said Van Fleet.

WHITE WAY IS NEAR FOR CITY

Fixtures Are To Be Ordered When Type Is Decided.

Installation of a "white way" in Port Arthur's downtown district is near.

Orders for 60 light fixtures, costing about $25,000 to be put on Prospect street from Shreveport to Houston avenues, and on Austin avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets, will be placed as soon as the type of fixtures wanted is decided upon, it developed at a meeting Friday afternoon between Mayor J. P. Logan, A. F. Townsend, general manager of the Eastern Texas Electric company, and S. P. McFadden, superintendent of the electric company at Port Arthur.

The lights for the white way will be placed on each side of the streets instead of down the center, as was originally planned. It was decided, however, that the streets from the center for not being practicable, according to the electric company officials.

They presented a number of pictures and plans of "white ways" installed in other cities.

Agreement to install the fixtures for the business district white way if the city would appropriate funds for supplying the current to the lights was made by the Eastern Texas Electric company several months ago, and funds for paying the electric bill were included in the city's budget, voted on and carried, last April.

Harding's Funeral Services To Be From Home of Father

El Mina Patrol Gives $100, Mrs. L. Allis $25 to Day Nursery

A contribution of $100 has been received by the Day Nursery from the El Mina Patrol. Mrs. K. A. Young, chairman of the Day Nursery board, announced today. The donation was part of the proceeds from the circus held recently in Beaumont. Mrs. Young announced that officials of the Port Arthur Shrine club were planning to hold a similar circus here in September, a percentage of which proceeds will go to the Day Nursery.

A cash contribution of $15 was also received from Mrs. Lucy L. Allis, according to Mrs. Young.

Wished Simple Service.

Mr. Harding in the early days of his fatal illness expressed himself as not wishing elaborate services, according to Dr. Carl Sawyer, son of Brigadier General Sawyer, the late president's personal physician.

Dr. George T. Harding, aged father of President Harding, was recovering today, his physician said, from the shock of his son's death. He slept well last night and appeared more able today to stand the strain of the sad week which he lives.

The funeral Friday morning will be at Dr. Harding's home, the home of the late President Harding having passed into other hands soon after Mr. Harding went to the White House.

Marion today began to don the sombre garb of mourning as the first shock of the president's death subsided.

The next home coming of the little community's illustrious son will be in sharp contrast to his last visit in July, 1922.

Last year when the president spent three days here at the Marion Center, streets and homes were resplendent with beautiful bunting.

Decorations Give Way to Drapes.

Today all of the flags, including the ones which drape the famous Harding "front porch" and the office of his newspaper, the Marion Star, were at half mast.

The late president is to be buried in the Harding plot in Marion cemetery beside the bodies of his mother and sister, who died in 1910 and 1913.

Mr. Harding, according to his father, had for several years planned to build a mausoleum on the plot and was postponing the order until his next visit to Marion.

Mrs. Harding, when she returns to Marion, will make her home temporarily with Dr. and Mrs. Carl Sawyer at White Oaks farm, Millard Hunt, now living in the old Harding home, offered to vacate at once so Mrs. Harding could move in but she is understood to have asked him to remain.

Because of incomplete information as to plans of the funeral party now en route from San Francisco only simple plans could be made today for funeral.

Adjutant General Henderson of the Ohio National Guard has sent word that all the armed forces of the state will be rushed to Marion for the funeral if Marion wants them.

BODY TO LIE IN STATE

Mrs. Harding Travels in the Same Car With Her Dead

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Calvin Coolidge in his first proclamation today declared Friday, August 10, a day of national mourning for the late President Warren G. Harding. On that day, he asked that the people gather in their respective places of worship and engage in ceremonies befitting the occasion.

BY LAWRENCE MARTIN.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

EX ROUTE WITH THE PRESIDENT HARDING FUNERAL TRAIN, Aug. 4.—Bearing as its precious freight the nation's illustrious dead, shrouded in sorrow and weariness, the special funeral train carrying President Harding's body to Washington was speeding across Nevada today.

Almost every mile of the way from San Francisco has furnished evidence of the nation's sorrow. All through the night as the train plumed on at a speed equalled only by the crack overhead wires, men, women and children could be seen standing along the track, the men bearded and all wearing a hushed and reverent look.

Profusion of Flowers.

The flag draped casket rests in the same car in which the late president journeyed across the continent on his way to Alaska. At its head and foot the guard of honor—two soldiers and two sailors—stand rigidly at attention.

As the presidential funeral train crossed the full breadth of the beloved country millions will observe its passing. In the lighted cars there is a profusion of flowers.

There is a simple rosewood coffin with "Warren G. Harding" inscribed on its small silver plate. It is guarded by soldiers, sailors and marines chosen from the detachments that accompanied President Harding on the Henderson. Though the train will not pause for ceremony it will proceed at a slower pace through towns and cities.

The crowds that stood in the night were obviously moved by the passing presence, for no sound came from them. They stood in mute respect as the train with the flag draped coffin in the last car went by.

A Grave and Tragic Figure.

In the same car was the brave and tragic figure of Mrs. Harding, facing still several days of need to keep fighting her grief, still too much in the public eye to be allowed to go away by herself with her sorrow.

It was impossible for Mrs. Harding to rest as she needs to rest. Her nerves are too straining for quiet sleep, her heart throbbing too painfully to the too new wound to permit her the repose that she should have. But her spirit was unbroken, her pose unimpaired. Mrs. Harding gave new evidence of her courage, of the magnificence of her courage.

Wilson to Take Prominent Part at Services

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Woodrow Wilson is expected to take a prominent part in the funeral ceremonies for President Harding.

Colonel Sherrill, military aid to the president, announced after a conference with President Coolidge that arrangements are being made for the participation of Mr. Wilson. A squadron of cavalry and a battalion of field artillery will meet the funeral train when it arrives Tuesday at 1 o'clock and escort the remains to the White House.

President Coolidge, Chief Justice Taft, acting President pro tem of the senate, Senator Curtis of Kansas and Speaker Gillett will head the cortege.

THREE SCOUT TROOPS TO GO ON BIG PICNIC

The three purple-necked troop of the local Boy Scout organization leave Sunday for an all-day picnic which will be given them at a spot a mile from the Beaumont Country club, it was announced here this morning.

The troops will leave at 9 o'clock from the K. C. hall.

Swimming events, foot races and other field day exercises will be held on the grounds during the day. The families and friends of the scouts are cordially invited to attend the picnic, it was announced.

"Call Me Magnus," Begs Western Dirt Farmer, Elected Senator

KINGSTON, Minn., Aug. 4.—"You have come a long way just to see an ordinary Minnesota farmer."

That is the comment of the neighbors in this village, 10 miles from the railroad, when an interviewer asks the road to the farm of Magnus Johnson.

And when the visitors arrive at the old white six-room house overshadowed by a huge barn, it is a surprising, over-all-clad farmer, with two dogs bounding beside him, who comes out to give them welcome. His impressive sincerity and zest for combat can't appear until later.

The neighbors' phrase of "ordinary" fits Magnus Johnson so far as his appearance on the farm is concerned. He is slightly below average height, but broad of frame. His hair is brown with a bald spot on top, and his bushy mustache is reddish brown. Small, light-blue eyes, snub, behind heavy-rimmed, over-thick glasses. It is a sincere, cheerful, alert face.

His picturesque crudity externally will make him anything but ordinary in the home. Aside from the ordinary is a striking similarity in appearance to Theodore Roosevelt which this rustic radical is delighted to hear referred to.

"Call Me Magnus"

First greetings include the new title of "senator."

"Call me Magnus," says the senator, and the manner is anything but a pose.

A rich Swedish accent shows as he follows his words. In the conversational tone which can be heard on the next farm. The accent will be found to include "gentleman" for "gentlemen," "were" for "very," and "shore" for "shore."

"This is Magnus Johnson, Junior," he says, as he seizes his stage-frightened 14-year-old namesake and drags him forward for introduction.

"Magnus is a very good boy," says the father, his blue eyes shining through over-thick spectacles and his teeth showing in a broad smile under the bushy reddish mustache. "Magnus has to work hard on the farm. He was born on the Fourth of July. Who says I am not patriotic?"

Then are introduced the others of the family—"Ma" Johnson, a large, pleasant-looking, unaffected country woman; Lillian, 23; Victor, 21; Francis, 19; Aeneas, 16; and Florence, 13.

Family of Workers

They bore the burden of farm work during the campaign. On election day Mrs. Johnson herself milked seven of the family's 21 cows before going to Minneapolis to receive election returns. "Ma" and Magnus will take the younger three children to Washington when they go.

By a back door the senator leads his visitors through the dining room to the "sitting room." The kitchen is in the rear but in the dining room is a sink with a pump at the end instead of water faucets. On the sideboard stand freshly filled keosauke lamps.

Lillian goes back to clearing the dishes from the table and "serges"

It is suggested that Washington will be different from the serenity of the farm.

"Those fellows there ain't going to learn me anything," says Magnus.

"I've been going to school in politics since I was a boy in the old country. I've been to Washington a couple of times, and they're not going to slip anything over on me."

Again it wasn't a pose, Magnus is convincing.

JAP STUDENTS STAGING RIOTS

'New Japan' Threatens to 'Kick Over Traces'

TOKYO, Aug. 4.—Strikes and rioting among Japanese students have been becoming more frequent and serious recently.

Government officials, newspapers and leaders in almost every field are wondering whether "new Japan" is going to kick out of the traces altogether.

Students of one of the big religious universities of Tokyo recently mobbed their president, wrecked his office, beat him up thoroughly, forced him to sign a resignation touched in humiliating terms—and made the resignation stick. The university has a new president and the students have consented to resume their studies.

It is almost a daily occurrence for various groups of university students in Tokyo to hold "free speech" meetings, with large crowds in attendance. They speak freely, too, and they fight the cops to do so, if necessary—as it often is.

Variations are like vaccinations. Make you feel bad, but protect you from more of the same.

The world gets better. Very few young dentists graduated in June have been shot, yet.

POLICE REVEAL PASSPORT RING

Counterfeiting Group's Activities Growing

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Wholesale counterfeiting of passports for travel to the United States, by a group of conspirators centering about Naples and with confederates apparently residing in New York, was disclosed by activity of the Italian police during June and July.

The thoroughgoing nature of these swindlers is shown in the fact that they embellished their fraudulent documents with facsimiles of the seal and signature of the king's attorney and the seals of the American embassy and consulate at Rome and Naples.

As early as May, this year, the liner "Patria," en route to New York, reached Naples with fifty persons among her passengers, whose passports the authorities found to be counterfeit. Investigation by the Italian police disclosed traces of a general conspiracy and brought about the arrest of two suspects on whose persons were found blank passport certificates, already stamped with the official seal and signature. Further inquiry led to the seizure, on July 2, of 15 additional prisoners, among them men of prominence and evident wealth, according to advices to the Foreign Language Information Service.

Five Held Forged Papers

Early in July the steamer "Conte Verde" was found upon her arrival in New York to have aboard five passengers whose papers were false, although adorned with good imitations of the seals used by American embassy and consulate officials. Deportation of these immigrants coincided with vigorous activity by the Italian police and the arrest of those who it is said organized the conspiracy.

Investigation has been aided by the disappointment of those in southern Italy who have been rendered penniless by the swindlers and subjected to long and painful return trips across the Atlantic. The alleged organizer of the group, now in custody, is a man who lived for several years in New York and is said to have grown rich in the "bootleg" liquor traffic before retiring to Naples.

Persons who seemed to be above suspicion, says U. Corriere D'America, (New York), were at the head of the organization—millionaires who frequented the best hotels, professional men who carried on their criminal operations in every region of Italy. It seems that the false passports were made in New York, sent to Naples via Marseilles and from there distributed throughout Italy. Tens of thousands have been robbed in this way.

180 Bogus Immigrants

Closely associated with the passport fraud is an incident, lately revealed, concerning a voyage made some months ago by a well-known liner, out of Naples for New York. Attention was first drawn to the steamer by the fact that she was obliged to ship a new crew at Naples, the old crew having disappeared. Although police inspection discovered nothing wrong at the time, when she was three days at sea, no fewer than 180 clandestine immigrants were found to be aboard. All were sent back to Italy, following their arrival in New York.

Many of them confessed to the authorities in Naples that they had paid as much as ten thousand lire each to an illegal agency which plotted them safe conduct and free admission to the United States. Incidentally, after demanding extra early payments from the helpless steerage passengers during the trip from Naples and threatening to turn them over to the authorities if they dared protest, the agency even deserted en masse when the boat reached New York.

Even at the present rate of exchange, the initial payment of ten thousand lire comes to more than the most favored passenger pay for first-class accommodations on the same voyage. All that these miserable dupes received was a round trip in steerage, broken hearts and bankruptcy.

THE OLD LANDMARK

He was old and feeble and his hands of life were nearly run out. He walked with faltering steps along one of the most fashionable avenues in the city of Houston. He had left the city 20 years ago, when it was little more than a thriving village, and now, weary of wandering throughout the world and filled with an unutterable longing to once more rest his eyes upon the scenes of his youth. He had come back to find a bustling modern city covering the site of his former home. He sought in vain for some familiar object, some old-time sight that would recall memories of bygone days. All had changed. On the site where his father's cottage had stood a stately mansion reared its walls; the vacant lot where he had played when a boy, was covered with modern buildings. Magnificent lawns stretched on either hand, running back to palatial dwellings. Not one of the sights of his boyhood days was left.

Suddenly, with a glad cry, he rushed forward with renewed vigor. He saw before him, untouched by time, an old familiar object around which he had played when a child. He reached out his arms and ran toward it with a deep sigh of recognition.

Later on they found him asleep, with a peaceful smile on his face, lying on the old garbage pile in the middle of the street, the sole relic of his boyhood's recollections.

POSTSCRIPTS

The regular annual statement from the revenue officers in North Carolina comes in on time: viz: That moonshining is broken up in that state. However, it is 10 to 1 that if a man leaves his jug and his money at a regular place behind a rock, he will find it full when he comes back. An iconoclast can knock down more idols when somebody sets them up occasionally.

Many a man has been known to get full on a drop in the bucket—ship. When the people are assured that justice will be dealt out in the courts to criminal mobs, violence will cease, says the Western Tribune. But the assurance lingers.

A pretty society man is about as useful as a dried currant. Both inclined to swell when they are in the swim.

YOU AND I

SIXTY

The winner of the $100,000 Bok prize prize, all present the world with its sixtieth year for international peace since the Un-Bok peace scheme was suggested in the year 1866, over 60 years ago.

Men with acid temperaments may scoff. "There'll always be war, as long as we have human nature."

However, for each peace scheme that has been advanced, there have been at least 1000 war schemes. And a peace scheme that will win out is inevitable in an United States of the world. Six hundred years is a very short period in the long history of humanity.

$100,000

This might not win the $100,000 Bok peace-plan contest. But we have a deuced notion that it would end wars.

Call a world conference and establish an international law by which all legislators or executives who voted for war would have to join the army as privates in the first troops sent to battle.

Men, in backing war, usually leave the fighting to others.

CHAINED

Tonnadelli, Italian inventor, who lives in New Jersey, claims he has discovered how to harness the atom and make it in a bulk produce 100 candlepower of light for three years without batteries, renewals or any kind of electrical connections.

We are forever hearing of sensational discoveries that never materialize. But what Tonnadelli proposes is inevitable, just a matter of time. We live in the midst of sources of terrific forces which, when discovered, will relieve humanity of the bulk of its work.

JAVA

In Java, which has a population a third as big as ours, bubonic plague is so common that it kills half of the children before they are five years old. The Japanese take this as a matter of course, reports William Ferguson, globe trotter. He found the people of Java with the viewpoint that if the plague didn't kill half the children the island shortly would be unable to sustain the inhabitants despite its fertility.

Nature is cynical in its harshness. She deals only in cause and effect, action and reaction, and the thing we all consider in alien to her plans. Civilization is merely a banding together for mutual protection against nature. Most of us have lost sight of this original purpose.

DRESS SUIT VS. COLLARLESS STATESMEN.

Washington and Austin have their dress suit and collarless statesmen. They are in constant controversy regarding the line of demarcation between correct social relationships and entangling political situations. The line is a fine spun one.

Since the days of the great commoner, James C. Hogg, the dress suit has been projected into almost every hard political fight in Texas. When the political platforms of the dress suit statesmen have seemed impregnable, the opponents have always been able to point out the danger in selecting a candidate to fill an office where the dress suit might be a symbol for social activities.

Minnesota has recently gone through a senatorial campaign which was conducted along these lines. Magnus Johnson was the Farm-Labor nominee. He is a farmer. His sons are farmers, and will continue to operate his farm while he is in Washington representing his state.

His election was urged by men of high standing in the political machinery of the state on the basis that Magnus Johnson would never be found idling around in Washington all dressed up in a dress suit. They proclaimed him a man who would work for the collarless and the carrier of the dinner pail.

This savor of rank demagoguery, but the political leaders capitalized a resentment which the public has over the part that social activities play in the government. They combined the demagogic appeal and justifiable argument. Johnson is senator-elect from Minnesota.

Campaign managers have made dress suits the symbol for other activities in which the government officials participate. It was a telling argument. Even Chief Justice Taft has come in for his share of criticism because of his participation in banquets and other social events. His predecessor, Chief Justice White, had carefully avoided any affairs which might bring him into social contact with any one whom he might be called on to judge on the bench later.

So the fight has gone on. Johnson is senator-elect from Minnesota. Ford is being talked for the presidency of the United States. His followers proclaim the outstanding example of the working men's friend. He says he's for the people.

It is hard to draw the line between these political entanglements and social relationships. Whether the political aspirant lives in Texas or in Washington, common sense and sound judgment must comprise the political yard stick, and be the criterion.

WILD GUESSES

Lester B. Colby of the National Oil and Gas News predicts that every big pool now in flush production is near or past its peak and that while about half of the present production of crude is coming from 4,100 wells, mostly in the recently struck pools, three or four years ago half of the production was from 15,000 wells. Editor Colby is a former Texan. He has been a winner in the game, not as a producer of petroleum but as the producer of an oil and gas newspaper.

He did not know that the new fields were coming in. A year ago wise ones in the petroleum world declared that the Mexican wells had been ruined by salt water, that the pumping period was near, that the supply in the mid-continent territory was decreasing and the outlook for increased production was dismal.

Man is wise in his own conceit. Now the Sinclair interests have placed an order for thirty or forty steel tanks each with a holding capacity of eighty thousand barrels, for the Teapot Dome field, and there are new fields coming in every day in Texas.

All the wild guessers are not in the political world.

HOLLYWOOD A CANNING FACTORY

Frank Tilley is a noted English motion picture man and the editor and publisher of Standard Motion Picture magazines. He jumped from London to Hollywood where he made the discovery that Hollywood is a canning factory, that the motion picture industry is on the verge of collapse, that there will be a complete and final crash in the movie business within five years unless producers more reasonably sense what the public wants, that more money is being spent on pictures than here before, but the pictures are not so good, that stories are not purchased because of their value but because of the graft someone obtains from the purchase, that American producers have betrayed the artistic possibilities of the screen, that producers think that by appealing to lower elements they are giving the public what it wants and lastly that American producers don't give the public what it wants but what they think it wants.

Well, what have the English producers accomplished along higher lines? Where are the English pictures that are exceptional or far above those made and shown in America, on the American screen? Great Britain is as far behind America in the motion picture business as China is behind Japan in militaristic skill or science.

America is responsible for the motion picture. When England produces a Thomas A. Edison then it will be time for the Tilleys to speak out in condemnation of American art and condemn Hollywood as a canning factory.

Has England a Hollywood? Has England even a counterfeit replica of the California institution? Has England invested a billion dollars in movie plants? Has England invested three billion dollars in the moving picture enterprise?

It is easy to criticize; to construct or build is another story.

WHERE THEY GO.

Where do emigrants go? Well, the last government census shows that of the fourteen million persons of foreign birth now living in the United States, about five million are residents of the Upper Mississippi valley, five million in the middle Atlantic states, two million in New England, about one million in the south and about five hundred thousand on the Pacific coast.

Of the 1,686,000 Germans in the country in 1920, 295,000 were in New York, 120,000 were in Pennsylvania, 205,000 in Illinois, 151,000 in Wisconsin and 100,000 in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

There were 1,140,000 Poles in the United States in 1920. Of these 247,000 were in New York, 178,000 in Pennsylvania, 162,000 in Illinois, 103,000 in Michigan and about 150,000 in New England.

For the most part these foreign-born wealth producers are found in the great manufacturing and agricultural states of America and for the most part they are gluttons for work and they know how to save.

Italy of late has been a large buyer of American wheat. This stabilized the market. Never throw rocks at the Latins. They are buyers of American products. Never throw rocks at the Japs. They purchased a million bales of American cotton last year.

GAS TAX IS SPREADING TO EVERY STATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Within a few years, developments show, every motorist in America may expect to dig down into his jeans for 1, 2 or 3 cents extra to every gallon of gasoline he buys. That is the taxation program that is gradually being adopted throughout the United States.

Already 26 states have adopted gasoline taxation measures. Seventeen of these got into line only this year. Another will make the number 37 at the beginning of 1924, and most of the remaining 11 states are contemplating passage of a gasoline tax. This information comes from a recent report by Harry Misco, secretary of the Motor Vehicle conference committee, representing various automobile organizations in the country. It is preliminary to a thorough study of the gasoline tax situation, on the basis of which the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce is expected to adopt a governing policy with regard to this subject.

That the gasoline tax is here to stay is shown not only by the large number of states that adopted it this year, but by the nine states, which increased their fees by 1 and 2 cents a gallon.

More Coming. In addition, several of the states still without gasoline taxes have been contemplating adoption of such a measure. The governor of Michigan voted a 2-cent tax bill passed by the legislature and the chief executive of Arizona did not permit the bill increasing that state's tax from 1 to 3 cents to go through as law. These states, however, are expected to turn the tables probably by next year.

"In Massachusetts," reports Misco, "the law imposing a 2-cent tax was passed by the legislature and approved by the governor. But a popular referendum will be held in 1925, which therefore automatically suspends the collection of the tax until the people have expressed their will upon it."

Ohio also considered a gasoline tax, but at the last minute it was decided to have a special committee look further into the situation in that state. Minnesota has passed a law providing for an amendment to make gasoline taxation legal. And Oregon has called upon its neighboring states of Washington, Idaho and California for uniformity in their gasoline tax measures.

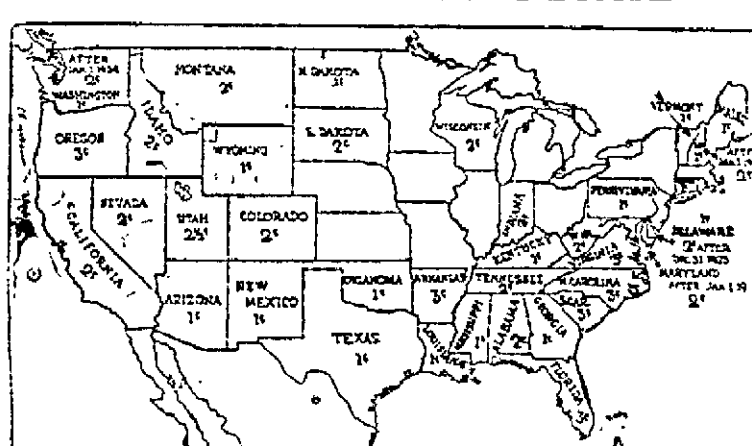

Little Other Reduction. Despite this additional taxation, however, there has been little if any sign of a reduction of other forms of motor duties.

In only two of the 36 states which have so far enacted motor fuel taxes," Misco points out, "have there been the elimination or even reduction of other forms of special levies. In California privately used motor vehicles must henceforth pay an annual flat registration fee of $2, while in Utah there has been a 50 per cent reduction in the registration fees for passenger cars and the same for trucks of one-half and three-fourths ton capacities.

"On the other hand, of the 17 states adopting gasoline taxes this year and the eight others increasing the rate of their existing taxes, seven declared a lowered rate of one kind or another in some or all of their annual registration fees. This was particularly true with regard to trucks of the larger capacities."

Bobbed Hair Wins Out Over Ban of Fashion

NEW YORK, August 4.—New York girls are rejoicing. As the summer progresses they see bobbed hair slowly but surely emerging in the battle precipitated last spring by designers of feminine styles—bobbed hair versus long skirts.

"Things looked dark for wearers of short locks when two national organizations whose slightest utterance sways the style of the feminine world declared bobbed hair must go. It meant little to the average citizen to read that designers of women's dresses had declared the long skirt would be the fashion for summer and fall. To the bobbed-haired girls it came as the rambling of approaching battle. A long draped dress, topped off with a crown of impudent bobbed hair simply would not look right. Now in mid-season, the battle seems to have been decided in favor of the short-haired insurgents. A girl who has watched the struggle between bobbed hair and long dresses—for she wears both—declares her victory was won when several Broadway dress shops engaged bobbed-haired models to display how fittingly long skirts really look on short hair doctored."

Barbers say there is no indication the frowns of fashion have affected the prevailing passion for fluffy bobbed hair. All their feminine customers are remaining faithful, they say, and are continually bringing in new recruits.

Report of Cavorting Nebraska Monster Is Called a Plain Myth

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Cold prose hopped upon the back of the brouhaha which has been doing better and better among the alkali lakes of northwest Nebraska and the old front turned out to be a plain tale from the plains. Dr. D. W. Matthews, head of the department of vertebrate paleontology of the American Museum of Natural History, said Wednesday these monsters cavort around the world, coming up from central Africa and Patagonia into the fertile but somewhat insect-ridden minds of the cowboys and free silver men of Bryan's great state.

"It happens," said Dr. Matthews, "that we have a party working near Alliance, Neb., at this moment. The investigators are about 10 miles from the alkali lake section, where the brouhaha was supposed to be, and I imagine we would have heard from them if the animal was swimming around there."

"I knew an old liar out there once who used to tell of prehistoric animals in that section. There are a lot of fossils around there and the plainsmen know about them, but usually they keep the dinosaurs and pterodactyls within bounds, never larger than a house."

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON

DEAR MOTHER: Although I know you intended to be kind I think you should have told me of Leslie's accident the moment it occurred. As it was you let me go on for a long time feeling quite hurt because she had not written me. Now I am filled with remorse that I could have thought for a moment that my darling sister would have neglected me when I was so far away.

However, I think I received a cablegram. I should have taken the next boat home. It sickens me every time I think of the good times I have been having while all the time she has been so ill.

I want you to tell Leslie that I know nothing about her accident and that if she wants me or if she thinks that I can do her the least bit of good I will come home immediately. Poor girl! I believe I would die had I been expecting such a wonderful event in my life as a baby and then had to hear the disappointment of losing it before it had ever been laid in my arms.

Karl was awfully sweet in telling me about it. We are still talking about you all. He said that you let him go in and look at Leslie for a moment while she was asleep, so that he could even tell me just how she looked. He told me she was "just like a Madonna who had been deprived of her only child by death."

He told me that Jack was thinking of adopting a child. I think this would be a lovely thing. Let me know as soon as you decide which way it is going to be if you decide upon adoption, don't christen him until I come home. I want to be godmother. Poor Leslie! I haven't been able to get her out of my mind all day. This being married, mother, isn't such a cinch after all, is it?

Someway up until now I have always considered marriage a kind of glorified courtship under the sanction of the church, but now I see there are a great many responsibilities and cares connected with it.

Karl told me that you thought he had better bring those pearl beads of Leslie's over here, but he dissuaded you from it. I wish you had let him bring them. I think they would go awfully well with my new pearl ring. The ring of course is real, but everyone says that the beads are such a wonderful imitation that I'm sure they couldn't be told apart. In one of her letters Leslie intimated that she was going to break the string in two and give part of it to Beatrice Grimshaw for a wedding present.

You may tell her that I will never forgive her if she does a thing like that. I wrote and told her how hurt I would be if she did it, but I want you to clinch the argument. I didn't know that I would be glad to see anyone as I was to see Karl. I wouldn't marry an Englishman if he were the Duke of Westminster or the Prince of Wales himself.

Please cable me exactly how Leslie is. Could she read a letter if I should write it to her?

I love you all so much.

ALICE.

Skipper Cliff Gunn's Elks Invade Orange Field Tomorrow

Elks, Strengthened With Return of Joe Prejean, Leave at 10

Local Squad to Gather at Kleas Drug Store Sunday and Motor to Orange for Second Game With Fast Diamond Crew.

By BILL ARCHER
FINDING it impossible to change arrangements after the game had already been well advertised for Orange, Skipper Cliff Gunn of the local Elk contingent announced this morning that the Port Arthur nine would invade the realm of the Orange Diamonds tomorrow for another game on their opponent's own field.

The Elks will leave Port Arthur tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from Kleas' drug store on Procter street, and will motor overland to the Orange field.

The Elks will not be the easy contingent to conquer this trip they might have seemed for Orange the last time. They constitute a more seasoned ball nine now than before, and they have been looking up with some of the best baseball clubs of this section, coping games and dropping a few hot went to the contingent playing the best brand of ball for the occasion.

Skipper Gunn's contingent is strengthened considerably for the game tomorrow, and there will be a couple of faces on his lineup that as yet have not been introduced this season on the diamond at Orange. They are Johnson, sensational first baseman and Joe Prejean, hurling ace of Port Arthur who returned yesterday from Nebraska, where he has been playing professional baseball this season.

The ability of Johnson as a first baseman is far above the average seen on the sand lot and usually displayed in amateur baseball circles; he starred with the Texas Azzies, and that alone speaks well for him. Prejean's ability as a pitcher is well known to the semi-pro squads of this section. He has brought misery galore to numerous teams to those who opposed him, and now he's back home, to stay he says, seasoned with the experience of professional games to aid him in a clash against anything the Elks might choose.

It is probable that Gunn will hurl Prejean against the Diamonds tomorrow afternoon. Prejean's return here immediately opened up a series of bartering on the part of City League powers for his offerings. It is not known which team he will sign with here, but it is known that all want him, and are glad to see him back. His return to Port Arthur was brought about as a direct result of his side to a losing contingent in the Western League.

Signed as a member of the Blue's hurling staff since the beginning of the season, Prejean pitched in 18 games during this stay with them, only six of which he dropped. Nebraska papers, speaking of his ability, assert that "he kept the Blues out of the cellar." Naturally the Blues sold Joe to the Sioux City squad of the Western League, and the local moonshiners realized he was about to be "swapped off" to a losing nine, he balked in the transfer, and announced that he would retire from the field. Professional professional ball, return to his home here, and again enter the independent field.

An athlete's what he's done. That changes up the outlook the rest of the way for the Elks, and for any local member of the City League that he might sign with, and it is highly probable that he may start the game off tomorrow with the Orange nine.

Orange already claims a victory over Gunn's boys; but the team the latter is sending over tomorrow is in better condition to argue. The skipper is carrying along the following:

Hooker, Romero, Morgan, Johnson, Smith, Johnson, Prejean, Leach, Bell, Cook, King and Burch. It is understood several carloads of boosters will also attend the game.

Jack Dempsey Off to Train for Pampas Bull
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Declaring that he needed but a little work to get into condition to defend his heavyweight championship against Luis Firpo, Jack Dempsey today left for Saratoga where he is to train for the fight.

"I feel fine," Jack said, "I am still practically in training as I have taken on only 10 pounds since I fought Gibbons in Shelby. I'm not understanding Firpo because any fighter who can punch the way he can is not to be taken lightly."

Lott Meets Victor
CHICAGO, August 4.—George Lott, 17-year-old Chicago youth will meet the winner of the match between Walter Hayes and Walter Westbrook for the western tennis titles Sunday. Hayes and Westbrook play today. Lott defeated John Hennessey, defending champion, yesterday.

In this auto age, the hen may cross the road because she is despondent over bad health.

Boy "Duck" Out After Title

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 2.—Another by wonder is gaining fame in the world of sport. He's Delmer Pierce, 16-year-old Duluth youth, who's a regular duck when it comes to water.

Although proficient in nearly every swimming feat, his big stunt is the mile event. He does it in 26 minutes and 25 seconds.

Today he took as a first-class contender for mile title won held by Norman Ross of the Chicago Athletic Club.

Delmer already has the one-mile championships of the Central Amateur Athletic Union and many city and state honors to his credit.

He began swimming before he was 7. Two years ago he began taking part in aquatic meets, after months of strenuous training under Coach William Trepanier of the Good Fellowship Club of Duluth.

Coach John Miller, former swimmer, now with the Duluth Boat Club, has taken Delmer under his wing.

And he expects great things of him in the national meet in Chicago in August.

JUPE PLUVIUS TABOOS CLASH

Citizens in Lead When Umps Calls Game

Jupiter Pluvius finally succeeded in drowning out the fervency of the Citizens yesterday, and the scheduled game between the Citizens and the Gulf was called off at 2:30 p.m. The Citizens came to an abrupt conclusion in the second stanza, with only two men out, and the score standing 7 to 0 favoring the localmen.

Caldwell was nominated to start the fireworks for the Gulf, but the Citizens miked him for a total of 4 runs and several base hits in the opening round, and amidst the heavy shower that was falling from a heavier sky, Skipper Rusty Davis called him from the mound to be relieved by Newt Baggott.

"Big" fared little better in the lone frame he hurled. He glanced a strikeout, dished out a trio of wild pitches that counted heavily against him, and was miked himself for three tallies. That made the Citizens a lead of seven runs for the two frames when the rain became so heavy, the ball so soggy and play so dangerous that Umpire Bell called the game.

Leach, pitching for his own contingent, was firing much better than the Gulf moonshiners, but the tollate weight of the wet ball and the condition of the field in general was showing on him.

The game, of course, does not count in the official standing of the teams, it not having gone the five-inning round necessary to make it a legal clash. Leach had his opponents hitless when the motion ended, while the Citizens had clipped off a quarter of a dozen tallies, two of which went to "Doc" Fulbright in as many trips to the plate.

The score:

Player	AB	R	B	O	E
Hooker, 2b	0	1	0	0	1
Fulbright, cf	2	2	0	0	0

PORT ARTHUR CHOSEN FOR DISTRICT OFFICES
Selection of Port Arthur as the district headquarters for the Jefferson County Standard Life Insurance company, is announced today by C. E. Patton, district supervisor, who opened offices on the third floor of the Deuster building.

"The large volume of business handled in Port Arthur by the company necessitated opening the district offices here," Patton said. His company has headquarters in Greenville, North Carolina, and is said to be the largest strictly southern life insurance company Patton said.

AIR AMBULANCE FEAT
PERTH, W. Australia, Aug. 4.—The value of the air service to isolated settlers was demonstrated recently when a plane with an urgent surgical case met with a westerly gale which blew it 30 miles out of its course. Despite this he landed his patients in a hospital at Carnarvon within seven hours.

COLLINS TRADE PROVES FAILURE

Ty Cobb Makes Bad Deal Losing Ehrnke

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—Ty Cobb is unquestionably the greatest ball player the game has ever produced. Likewise Cobb has been quite successful as a manager. He probably has done as well with the Tigers as any one could.

But as a trader of baseball material, Cobb is far from the David Harum class. Cobb's big deal, Ehrnke and a lot of money for Collins and Pratt, which he figured would make the Tigers a pennant contender, has proved a "flivver."

Pitcher Collins, on whom Cobb banked for 20 ball games, has been a false alarm. With the season more than half over, Collins has won only three games. For nearly a month he has been out with a bad arm.

Last year Ehrnke won 17 games for Detroit. This year with the tail-end Boston club he has won 13 of his first 21 starts. He has been worth nearly five times as much as Collins.

Ehrnke was picked on the open market for would bring at least $70,000. The New York club probably would be willing to pay twice that sum for him right now, were it not for the fact that such sales are no longer permitted late in the season.

Pratt, figured on to play second for Detroit, has slowed up so badly that instead of being a regular, he merely fills the role of substitute. He is also hitting far below his custom.

Swapping of Pitcher Ehrnke for Pratt and Pitcher Collins, supposed to make the Tigers, really lusted Detroit's hopes.

Puzzling Plays

By BILLY EVANS
THE PLAY
Here are two plays in which the act of the batsman was identical, yet there is no difference in the result produced.

In the first case the batsman hit the ball to the shortstop, who made a perfect throw to first, which would have resulted in the batsman not the first baseman muffed the ball.

There was no other runner on the base. The ball rolled a short distance from the base. The batsman gave it a kick, sending it into right field, and then raced to third base.

In the other case there was a runner on third and no one out, when the batsman hit the ball to the shortstop. The throw had the batter beaten, but the first baseman muffed the ball. It rolled a short distance away and the man on third decided to try for the plate.

The batsman kicked the ball into right field as in the other case, the runner on third easily scoring and the batsman reaching third. What about the two plays?

THE INTERPRETATION
In the second play, where the runner on first kicked the ball into right field, while the runner on third was attempting to score the runner who kicked the ball should have been declared out for interference, while the runner originally on third should have been sent back to that base.

In kicking the ball the runner prevented the possibility of the first baseman getting the man at the plate.

In the other case, a bit of common sense should be mixed in with the rules. In this case, there was no play being made, and the runner who had crossed first, and had made no attempt to go to second, simply kicked the ball away.

I would have called time and sent the runner who had advanced to third back to first and inflicted no other penalty.

Settlement of Baseball Issue Between Reds and Giants is on Last Lap

By HENRY L. FARRELL
NEW YORK, August 4.—Cincinnati's tribe of Red Legs and Giants of New York will get down to business today of deciding which team is entitled to first place in the National league race.

With the Yankees so far out in front in the American league that they are just about a cinch for the pennant, baseball's chief interest is centered in the three-way fight in the National league between the Giants, Red and Pirates.

McGraw headed his champions into the series with the Reds with a lead of three games that will be mighty slim if the Reds greet them with the rampage that scalded the Giants on their last trip to Ohio.

To get the jump in the series, Pat Moran may call upon Luque, his Cuban star, to pitch two games. Luque has been pitching the best ball in the major leagues this season and he has been particularly effective against the Giants. In three appearances against them he has won three games, two of them being shutouts.

Yesterday's rest, while being of benefit to both teams should work to more advantage to the Giants and it will give the slim New York pitching staff a brief and much needed breathing spell.

Nah, McQuillan and Scott have been off form and the bulk of the pitching burden has been upon Watson, Ryan and Bentley. They showed good form in their last work but they are all erratic at their best.

Luque, Donehue and Rixey are three tough pitchers for any club to get over and they will be a problem even from such a savage attacking club as the Giants.

MINTER TO PREACH ON 'CONSCIENCE OF CHRIST'

A sermon on "Conscience of Christ" will be delivered tonight at 8 o'clock at the First M. E. church, South, Fifth and Nashville avenue, by Rev. C. K. Minter, of Silsbee, who is conducting a series of evangelistic services at the church.

Friday night Rev. Minter spoke on the transforming power of Jesus Christ, which lifts men up from their lower ideals, he said. The text chosen by Rev. Minter last night was found in Romans, the first chapter and sixteenth verse. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth."

HOW FOOLISH IT WOULD BE—

To expect your automobile to run without gas. Nor should you expect your business to even hold its own, without advertising, to say nothing about growth, and mighty few businesses are safe unless they are growing some, at least. Newspaper publicity of the right sort and the right frequency and volume, backed up by good merchandise that the people consume, and good management, will come mighty near to making any business grow.

We see all around us splendid examples of the fact that people do actually respond to proper merchandising offers. Whose fault is it?

RIVAL SECOND BASEMEN LEAD

Chicago Players Pile Up Stolen Bases

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—It is a rather interesting fact that the two leading base stealers in the major leagues should be second basemen and both members of Chicago clubs.

Eddie Collins, the veteran second sacker of the White Sox, is showing the way in the American league in the matter of thefts, while Grant-ham, a recruit, playing his first season as a regular, leads the National League in run running.

Incidentally it might be mentioned that the two players to press Collins and Grant-ham for the base-stealing honors are outfielders, Johnny Mostil of the Sox is hot on the trail of Collins, while Max Carey of Pittsburgh is close on the heels of Grant-ham.

For years Carey has been the premier base runner of the National League and he hopes to eventually overtake Grant-ham.

KINKS O' THE LINKS

Where did Bobby Jones finish in the national open last year and what was his score?

Jones finished in a tie for second place last year at Skokie with a score of 289. The veteran pro, John Black, shared the position with the youthful amateur, Sarazen won with a score of 288, so that Jones and Black were just a stroke removed from the title in 1922.

Smith's caddy, on all the greens in a match with Jones, indicated the line of Smith's putts with a club and held the club in position while Smith putted. The club held by Smith's caddy did not touch the ground but unquestionably was of great aid to Smith in his putting. Was Smith within his rights in having his caddy indicate the line of putt?

Smith was in error and should suffer a two-stroke penalty for each violation. It is merely permissible to point out the direction for putting before the stroke is made. This disputed point is covered by section 1 of rule 23.

A is playing B and giving him out stroke a hole. They both score a five on a certain hole in which A had the honor. Since each scored a five does A retain the honor at the next tee?

Although each made a five on the hole, B won the hole since A was giving him a one-stroke handicap. That of course entitles B to the honor on the next tee.

Is there a penalty if a player's ball strikes a flag stick which has been permitted to remain in the hole?

There is no penalty if a player's ball strikes the flag stick while it is in the hole, regardless of the distance the ball is playing from.

PASTOR'S DEATH BARES SCANDAL

Falls Dead in Hotel Room
With Girl

SUPERIOR, Aug. 4.—The Rev. N. J. Lockrem, 38, pastor of the Concordia Lutheran church of Superior, fell dead in a room in a Minneapolis hotel, Monday night, relatives here were notified Tuesday. Ruth Williams, pretty 22-year-old Minneapolis girl, who the police said, had been registered with Mr. Lockrem as "Mr. and Mrs. Martin of Superior," notified the hotel attendants when she ran from the room screaming, "He's dead, he's dead."

The girl disappeared when the police were notified, but was apprehended later and is being held pending an autopsy.

The Rev. Mr. Lockrem was a pastor here 18 years and presided over one of the largest Norwegian churches in this section. He left for Minneapolis Sunday afternoon to attend a church committee meeting. His wife and daughter, Mrs. O. L. Solheim, of Ely, Minn., survived. Mrs. Lockrem is visiting with her daughter and was expected to arrive here late Tuesday.

Following a post mortem examination by Dr. W. H. Deane, coroner, returned a verdict that the Rev. Mr. Lockrem's death was due to heart disease. A further investigation will be made by authorities at the medical school of the University of Minnesota, where the contents of the stomach were sent for examination.

The Rev. Mr. Lockrem was a member of many boards and committees of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America and as secretary of the efficiency and economy committee played a prominent part in the national convention last June. He also was a member of the board of directors of the Deacons institute at Chicago.

DISASTER HITS TYLER COTTON

Farmers Declare Crops Cut
Almost a Third by Heat

TYLER, Texas, Aug. 4.—Disaster has hit the Smith county cotton crop in the past two weeks, the hot, scorching weather having cut the prospects fully 30 per cent in the past fortnight. Many farmers say that the onset from the drought has cut the crop in two, but conservative estimates place the decline in the prospects at 30 per cent.

If a rain should fall within the next five days the situation would be greatly improved, but after that time, rain will come too late.

Young bolls are shedding fast from the stalks and the cotton is not holding any of the new squares it is putting on.

Present indications are that the crop this year will be about the same as in 1922, when Smith county produced 25,000 bales. A soaking rain this week will add 10,000 bales to the crop.

Sacramento Steals Our Whisker Club Moniker

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—The Sacramento Whisker club, California's modern "rough riders," has formulated a unique plan to carry the West to the East during the national celebration next month in memory of the famous pony express of 1860.

As the modern express riders follow the old trail across the plains from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento and thence to San Francisco for the final feature of the celebration, Sacramento's "forty-niners" also will move westward on a special "Wild West" train, replete with all the paraphernalia of early pioneer days and the relics of the California gold rush.

Attired in the garb of '49, the Sacramento men will leave here by special train in time for the return trip from St. Joseph on August 31. Events of pioneer life will be re-enacted on the "Wild West" special, and the whiskerinos propose to hold kangaroo court at all stations from Missouri to the Pacific coast, subjecting prominent citizens in each city to the speedy justice of the gold days tribunal.

The whiskerinos will participate in memorial services at the grave of William ("Buffalo Bill") Cody on Lookout mountain in the Denver National park, engage in the Mark Twain ceremony at Reno, reach the Sacramento terminal on the pony express trail on the day the riders arrive from St. Joseph, and then proceed by boat to San Francisco, as was done in the early Civil war.

Health Means More Than Wealth

That's why The News has engaged Clifford C. Robinson, M. D., fellow of the American College of Surgery, and one of the country's most brilliant medical authorities to conduct a column in The News, telling our readers how to keep well. If an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, then begin Sunday and read what he has to say about preserving your health. Dr. Robinson is no alarmist. He writes in a sane and clear manner. He is delightful, entertaining in a way that can be understood by all. He demonstrates an unusual faculty in proving himself competent to write on health topics in a manner comprehensible to the layman without assuming a pedagogical or technical pose. You will find Dr. Robinson a sympathetic friend and counsellor and in reading his short articles each day, you will learn much that will aid you and your family in keeping well and avoiding disease and ailments that are so common.

The Yellow Seven

Is a story of the desperate fight waged to death between "Chinese" Pennington, the white man's champion and Chai-Hung, arch criminal and leader of a terrible band of oriental cut-throats who sought to dominate—and did long dominate—the tropic fastnesses of the world's greatest island—an island of mystery to which the darkness of Africa is like noonday. These stories of Chinese crime are written by Edmund Snell, called the Kipling of Borneo, and it's a very apt description of him, as you'll agree after reading "The Yellow Seven", a page of which will be printed in The News, beginning Sunday. Snell is a comparatively new writer but his life has been full of adventure, the red-blooded kind that makes a he-man out of you. And he writes in the same vein. You'll like his stuff, because it will stir your imagination in the mysteries of the oriental. Snell was a soldier in the World War and he took up his literary pen when the great conflict ended and already he has proven himself the literary sensation of Europe.

The Mystery Man of Politics

That's what they say of Henry Ford, the man from Dearborn, who about every so often startles the world with some new theory of business or politics. Ford is a business genius without a peer in the world. He originated 'mass production' in making automobiles and recently announced that he had completed and turned out car number 8,000,000. Right now Ford-Ford-President clubs are being originated all over the United States and the possibility of the auto manufacturer becoming a candidate for president has leaders of both parties considerably worried. Ford, in an interview a few days ago said he was not seeking the nomination—that he did not have a political mind and therefore was not interested. However he didn't say he would not accept a nomination if offered and every voter and business man in the country is anxious to know what would happen if he was a candidate.

The life and accomplishments of Ford are interesting and because he is a presidential possibility, The News will print Sunday, a complete life history of the man. WATCH FOR IT.

LIFEBOAT USED FOR LONG TRIP

ESTRANGED PAIR IN SERIOUS ROW

Spirit of Crusader Still Pre- vails
MILWAUKEE, Aug. 4.—The in- domitable spirit of the Crusader still lives. Ira Sparks' attempt to reach the Holy Land by crossing the Pacific in a parking case resulted in his being put ashore here. Now, he plans to finish the journey in a little old lifeboat! "Dauntless" is the name Sparks has given the craft he plans to sail from Honolulu to the Holy Land. Daunt- less too is Sparks—known throughout Pacific ports as "the world's strangest stowaway." Through him, the eleventh and twelfth centuries join hands. A student of the Scriptures, Sparks, a native of Peru, Ind., says he re- ceived a direct command from Abra- ham to set forth. Sparks lacked money for the pas- sage. He thought of going as freight in a box. A carpenter, Sparks had no trouble in making the box, and fitting it to hold himself, his food and his belong- ings. Getting on ship was a differ- ent matter—but he was dauntless. Watching the stowaways at the docks in San Francisco, Sparks learned how some of the baggage marked "personal effects" was not stored in the hold but segregated in another part of sea-going liners. At the offices of a steamship line he obtained a properly filed bill of lading, made out for a specified size and weight of box. He paid the freight charge to Bombay, India. Then Sparks engaged a drayman. Shortly before the truck arrived, Sparks, with three jugs of water, some bread, oleomargarine and canned goods, his tools, a few clothes and a flashlight, climbed in his portable "stateroom." He closed the box from the inside, sniffed at the air holes he had bored through the boards and waited. Nearly Dies. It was a tough trip to the wharves. When he was dumped off the dray, a water can toppled down on his head. Tumbling on the hoisting belt, he heard the crew discussing the possi- bility of room in the hold. Finally the box was lowered into the silk room. Three days in a terribly cramped position, under insanitary conditions and drinking only once downed beer—And then the stowaway "came up for air." When the steamer docked here, Sparks walked to police headquarters and told his story. While the steamship company was wondering how it could explain the undelivered "freight," Sparks went to work in Pearl Harbor. He saved his earnings and recently bought an old lifeboat. He set it up on ways and toiled from sunrise to sunset to make it sea- worthy. He decked it over, hoisted a second-hand mast, patched the worn-out timbers of the bow with strips of sheet iron, hammered in brass creels and painted it with tar. The name, he declares, came to him in a flash, and he daubed the now-famous letters on the ancient craft. 14 HEAD OF CATTLE DIE IN FARM BLAZE RACINE, Wis., Aug. 4.—Fourteen head of thoroughbred cattle, a barn filled with hay and grain, a silo and shed for farm machinery on the farm of Walter Rowley, 10 miles north- west of Racine, were destroyed by fire Thursday morning causing a loss of $12,000 with insurance of $6000.
